The Greatest Black Silk Sale on Record.

Tomorrow We Inaugurate

the most stupendous Black Silk Sale in the history of this city. More than 75 different styles will be represented in this memorable sale. The opening sentences rea well, but they do not convey the whole story. Women will have to see the silks before they can form a just notion of the value. Everybody is aware of the black and white rage. It has raised black to the pinnacle of popularity. Of course, a price rise followed. However, these goods were ours before the market went high. We remain steady, and offer the richest weaves at rates that were current before blacks overshadowed the brilliant tints as the dominant motive for fashion's dress. Here's the test displayed on tables in front of the largest Silk Department in Washington:

On table No. 1 will be found the following weaves; some worth $1.25, none less than $1.00: Black Satin Duchess, Black Cyrano, Black Armure, Black Peau de Cgyne, Black Paller de Soie, Black Surah, Black Peau de Soie, Black Gros Grain, Guaranteed Taf-Française, Black Satin Liberty, Black Corsi- 600. feta, Black Bengalines, Black Crystals, Black Faille

FORMER JUDGE A SUICIDE.

Rogers Kills Himself With Dynamite in Colorado. News has reached Denver, Col., of the alleged suicide of Judge M. A. Rogers, forat Steamboat Springs, Col., on Wednesday

Judge Rogers, it is stated, lay down on the ground with a stick of dynamite under him and, lighting a cigar, fired the fuse and calmly smoked until the explosion ended his life. The act was committed among some willows near Bear River, just inside the town limits.

Steamboat Springs is a considerable distance from the railroad and only accessible by stage, which accounts for the delay in receiving the news in Denver. Judge Rogers had been there all summer with his wife. No cause is known for his taking his life. the ground with a stick of dynamite under ebrate by a large reception this evening at their residence, No. 937 I street, their golden wedding anniversary. Their marriage took place in this city, and in a house still standing, near Washington Circle. The only witnesses of the happy day surviving are the Misses Larner, sisters of Mr. Larner, who will be present at the reception this evening, and a brother of Mrs. Larner, who is detained at his home in the north by illness. The minister who officiated at the ceremony was the late Dr. J. C. Smith, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Six generations of Mr. Larner's family have been residents of this city, and all his married life has been spent on the site of his present home, the residence now occuhis present home, the residence now occupied having replaced the one formerly standing there. An interesting reminiscence of this wedding day of fifty years ago is a photograph recently made of the house where the ceremony took place, and portraits of the bride and groom as they appeared on that occasion. The family party that will enjoy the happy event with Mr. and Mrs. Larner are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Larner, Miss Nellie Larner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larner and children and Mrs. Charles Larner and Noble D. QUEEN OF CITIES.

The Public Better Treated in Wash-ington Than in New York. A Letter to the Editor of the New York Sun.

Having just returned from Washington, after a sojourn of some two weeks, it has been most vividly impressed upon my mind how that city differs from New York city in various ways, especially regarding the libra-ries and trolley cars.

Regarding the libraries, when one con-trasts the treatment which any stroller re-ceives in the Congressional Library, even if he is a tramp, so long as he behaves him-self, and that which people receive in our New York libraries—I do not mention these, as it might be considered invidious—the dif-ference is at once seen. In the Washington ference is at once seen. In the Washington libraries every employe, from the chief librarian to his subordinates, does his very utmost to facilitate the seeker after information. Here in New York, on the contrary, if a visitor gets even a civil word he may congratulate himself that he is not actually insulted. Indeed, it would appear as if the librarians in New York, founded, by the way, by philanthronic men to enable

if the librarians in New York, founded, by the way, by philanthropic men to enable even the hol pollol to partake of their advantages, take the utmost pains to insult visitors who wish to consult their books. That this is so I would refer your readers to the many letters to the newspapers. Haud inexpertus loquor.

Again, take the matter of the trolley cars and contrast the courteous treatment every passenger receives in Washington with that which our citizens daily receive here. In Washington when, for instance, a car stops to let off a passenger—this was my daily experience—the conductor not only brought his car to a standstill, but invariably remarked to me, "Now, be careful, and see if another car is not coming on the opposite track, so you will not be hurt."

York conductor on one of our trolley cars saying this to an outgoing passenger. Why, the very idea of such a thing happening here in our city would almost fairly take our breath away. And that this is true I would appeal to your readers and correspondents who, every little while, write to the Sun exploiting their grievances in this regard—to say nothing of the many, and oftentimes fatal, accidents, due solely to the shameful negligence of the conductors and motormen, which almost daily appear in your columns. No. There is no excuse whatever for this truly horrible state of things. Many obscure and unknown persons are thus killed or irreparably wounded whose cases do not Mr. and Mrs. Noble D. Larner will celappear in print. I write thus strongly be-cause I feel strongly, and I am induced to write this merely to show the difference be-tween Washington and New York in this regard.

Nor, further, is it any excuse to say that we have here so many trolleys running that a motorman cannot attend to the safety of his passengers. On the contrary, statistics will, I think, prove that there are as many trolleys running in Washington as in New York. The managers of our street railway system may well take a lesson from Wash ington. Still, I do not for a moment sup-pose that this protest of mine will make them change their ways by instilling into the minds of their motormen and conductors the necessity of a different treatment of the public. Indeed, my making this protest is undoubtedly merely "whistling down the wind!"

DEATH OF J. W. SCHUCKERS. Prominent in Journalism, Once Pri-

Mount Vernon, November 20.

Intelligence was received here yesterday of the death in Buffalo, Saturday last, of Mr. Jacob W. Schuckers, whose illness was noted in these columns a few days ago. Mr. Schuckers was born in Wooster, Ohlo sixty-eight years ago. Early in life he learned the printing business, and was more or less connected, directly or indirectly, with journalism ever since. In 1861 he entered the government service in Wash ington, as a clerk in the Treasury Depart ment, and shortly afterward became private secretary to Salmon P. Chase, the Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. After the death of Mr. Chase. Mr. Schuckers became a citizen of New Jersey where he has resided ever since. He wrote an interesting biography of Mr. Chase, and was engaged in preparing a new edition of that work up to the time of his death. At one time he was an editorial writer on the New York Sun, and was a frequent and valued contributor to the political, economical and social literature of the country He was secretary of the New Jersey com-mission at the Pan-American exposition mission at the Pan-American exposition, and it was in the discharge of the duties of that position at Buffalo that he contracted the iliness that resulted in his death. During his official connection, and otherwise, Mr. Schuckers made the acquaintance and gained the friendship of a large circle of prominent and influential people, in public and private life, by whom he was highly esteemed, and his death will be widely and sincerely regretted. sincerely regretted.
